

Truterra Program Transparency Documentation

Principles for Transparency - Agricultural Climate Markets Collaborative¹

Truterra endorses the principles of transparency developed by the Keystone Policy Center Agricultural Climate Markets Collaborative. (<https://www.keystone.org/agclimatemarkets/>)

Principles for Transparency²

Farm and entity eligibility for programs

Farmer eligibility for Truterra sustainability programs can be found on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/enroll>

Contract obligations for program participants

Contract term length is clearly defined in the specific program detail sheets that can be found on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/enroll>

https://admin.truterraag.com/Truterraag/media/TT_Images/23-TT-07_NitrogenManagementIncentiveProgram_7-20-23-1.pdf

https://admin.truterraag.com/Truterraag/media/TT_Images/23-TT-07_SupplyShedBenefitsProgram_7-20-23-1.pdf

https://admin.truterraag.com/Truterraag/media/TT_Images/23-TT-07_FieldDataManagement_Wheat_SellSheet_7-20-23-1.pdf

Reference contracts will be provided to growers and/or their designated ag retailer upon request.

Program enrollment contracts are not executed until full modeling and quantification of carbon benefits has been completed, and the grower knows the exact value of the carbon benefits.

Asset types generated by a program

Asset types are defined in the program documents on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/legal/program-documents>

Standards used by the program developer

Standards used can be found on our website:

¹ More on the Agricultural Climate Markets Collaborative can be found here:

<https://www.keystone.org/agclimatemarkets/>

² The full descriptions of the Principles for Transparency can be found here: <http://www.keystone.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/06/ACMC-Principles-for-Transparency-Final.pdf>

<https://www.truterraag.com/legal/program-documents>

Data required from program participants

Data required from program participants are disclosed in the project design documents on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/legal/program-documents>

Models used to generate credits

Models used to generate credits are disclosed in the program documents on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/legal/program-documents>

Ownership and transferability of the credits generated

Ownership of reductions (credits generated) is disclosed in the program documents on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/legal/program-documents>

Program participant financial obligations and payments

Farmer benefits/payments per program are disclosed on our website:

<https://www.truterraag.com/enroll>

There are no fees, membership requirements, customer requirements, or other participation requirements.

Data ownership and privacy

Data ownership rights are explained in the farmer master services agreement and end-user license agreement for our platform. Reference contracts will be provided to growers and/or their designated ag retailer upon request.

The Land O'Lakes privacy policy is available on our website for review:

<https://www.landolakesinc.com/Privacy-Policy>

Contractual implications of noncompliance and acts of God

Implications of failing to meet the requirements of a contractual agreement – including disqualification and force majeure events – are outlined in the respective contractual documents. Reference contracts will be provided to growers and/or their designated ag retailer upon request.

Required relationship between program developer and participant

There are no requirements of farmers to purchase goods or services, memberships, or other commercial requirements to participate in Truterra sustainability programs.